Presenter: Dr CHEAH Horn Mun

Biography

CHEAH Horn Mun is currently the Divisional Director of Academic Computing and Information Services at the National Institute of Education (NIE). He is primarily responsible for supporting the physical and human ICT infrastructure development of the institution and the push for adoption of e-learning. He has also initiated and participated in the development of the NIE Learning Hub and the establishment of two teaching and learning environments of the future at NIE.

CHEAH Horn Mun obtained his first degree in physics and subsequently completed his PhD in High Temperature Superconductivity. He joined NIE in 1994 as a lecturer and has taught undergraduate physics courses since. He was involved in various curriculum review work such as MOE’s syllabus review for Primary and Secondary Science, and more recently in the JC review. He is also involved in the planning process for the second IT Masterplan for Education. He is currently the chairman of the steering committee of the E-learning Competency Centre.